I had used the previous version of Photoshop Elements, it was always clunky and slow. Photoshop is a real powerhouse, shifts and changes has been minimal and I was never able to get it more than halfway. It felt buggy and slow. That's all changed with this version. It's snappy and basically performs without a problem. The new version I use a lot more than the previous one, and it's much better than it was before I installed the update. I'm happy that I finally got PS Elements, after using CAD software such as CorelDraw, drewhopper, Proshow. I loved Photoshop Elements after using Corel and Photoshop. I wish there was a free version, such as Arts to dabble. Although I like using the video editor. I like the new Scratch book export. Evernote import is really convenient. Very interesting review. I think you are giving the too easy benefit of the doubt to the Adobe Photoshop team. You discuss every single item in the list of new things in this version and conclude with "This is nothing new". Your comments and conclusions are just the typical reaction of an Adobe fanboy. There is no doubt that there are many, many changes in this release. In addition the product is enhanced far beyond what just this year has seen with the release of Photoshop CC and Lightroom CC. I've been a long-time user of Photoshop and I'm pleasantly surprised by Photoshop Elements 2019 for its sheer features. Like many users, I did spend a lot of time with the product when it first came out and now I'm running Elements again. My big gripe I was reminded of was the old perception of how a design should look when trying to actually understand what someone else had done is always a challenge. "Consistency", "standardization" and "maintenance of integration" have been trouble from the start for the old design for many many people.
